REGISTRATION BY MAIL HELD LEGAL

By High Court and Democrats
Will Profit If All Return
Home To Cast Ballots

Madison county democrats who are more or less "flabbergasted" by the decision of the Court of Appeals Tuesday knocking out the absent voters' law, got some measure of comfort out of reading the full opinion of the court which appeared in the morning papers. While the court held that a voter had to be present in person to cast his vote, it also ruled that a voter might register by mail in cities where registration before election is required. They will then have to come back home to vote on election day. This part of the ruling saves many from making two trips home to register and vote.

Inasmuch as the special registration by mail showed a big democratic majority for Richmond, this will help some in the event that all who registered to vote in the city return on election day to vote.

The figures in the office of County Clerk Maupin show that 202 voters who claim Richmond as their home registered by mail to vote here. Of these 97 were democrats and 5 republicans. All of these who desire to vote must now return home to do so. Absent voter ballots sent them or to voters from out of the county are null and void.

No ruling has yet been had as to disposition of the ballots which have been sent out to absent voters before the law was knocked out Tuesday. Attorney General Dawson is expected to make a ruling this week on this point. It is expected, however, that he will rule that where the voter appears in person at his polling place, the ballot which has been sent him and returned by him, will be handed by the clerk to deposit in the ballot box.

The ruling of the Court of Appeals on the absent voter law will be of interest at this time. It said:

"The great world war was on and thousands of our boys were at the front performing a patriotic as well as sacred duty for the state and the nation and it was not only thought wise but nothing more simple than justice that these defenders of the flag who were forced to remain at the front in the defense of civilization, should have a voice in the conduct of political affairs at home. The framers of the constitution and the people who voted to make it the supreme law of the Commonwealth in the year 1891, thirty years ago, did not dream of a world war requiring the sending of soldiers to Europe, visualized the needs of the country in such peril not thinking of the injustice which would result from depriving those who sustained the government of a right to participate in its conduct. Had the constitutional convention visualized such emergency, no doubt the iron clad provisions of the constitution above noted, requiring a voter to receive his ballot at the polls and there mark and deposit it, would have been modified or omitted altogether from our fundamental laws. There is now, however, no such call of emergency as existed at the passage of the act or as would justify this court, if it were inclined to do so, in disregarding the plain literal meaning of the constitutional provision or in giving to the quoted section such construction as its framers and the whole people did not intend to have."

Therefore, it follows that the absent voter law enacted in 1918 must be held void for it must yield to the constitutional provision. It is to be regretted that so convenient, useful and proper legislation should be in conflict with our basic laws. The only remedy is an amendment to the constitution which they can have if they wish allowing passage of an absent voters law. Other states having laws allowing voters to participate in the election have no such constitutional provision to annul it.

"As the constitution does not require one to be at the polls to register as a voter what is said above does not render invalid that part of the absent voters' act allowing persons absent from

RESPECTED CITIZEN DIES AT HIS HOME

Thomas Jackson Smith Succumbs
After Long and Game Battle
For Life

(By Associated Press)
On Tuesday evening at 9:30, after a lingering illness, death claimed Mr. Thomas Jackson Smith, in the 76th year of his age. He was the only son of Joseph H. Smith and Harriett Jackson Smith and was born in Newport, Tenn., December 3, 1845. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anne Smith, two sons, G. Murray Smith, of this city, and Joe Smith, of Fayette, and one daughter, Mrs. A. R. Denny, of Richmond.

In the passing of this truly good and noble man, his home city, his family and his friends suffer a loss not to be computed, for he was the embodiment of the Scriptural injunction: "Let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth." The tenants on his farm would, as one man cry "Amen!" to this, for they knew him as an unflinching, helpful and sympathetic friend always, but especially through these late years of stress and privation.

Mr. Smith was a man of firm character, absolute integrity, simple tastes, serene temper, won derful industry, and a kindly, gentle, sympathetic, loving heart. His home was to him a shrine; to his family he was the very heart of that home. It is a priceless and a precious legacy that he leaves to his children.

"By their fruits ye shall know them."

HEARD ABOUT TOWN

When officers seized a lot of home-brew at Greenup and left it in the courthouse yard, the crowd began to sample it.

J. B. Gay, member of a prominent Clark county family, died in Lexington.

Col. John Marrs, for many years a familiar figure at the Hotel Glyndon, is back home again and receiving a cordial welcome from his many friends.

The Courier-Journal says that if the amendments are adopted the Commission will be able to go out of the state to select a State Superintendent of schools. Another most excellent reason why it should be defeated, Kentucky has not gotten so poor in brains that it has to go to other states to find material to fill offices—Elizabethtown News.

Mrs. J. M. Foster and daughter Miss Duncan, have just returned from Middletown, Ohio, where they have been on a two week's visit.

Mrs. Thomas Barringer, Jr. and children have returned to their home in Florence, South Carolina, after a visit to the former's sister, Mrs. Preston Smith.

After Tigert's Scalp

Washington, Nov. 2.—The demand for the removal of Dr. John J. Tigert, Lexington, Ky., United States Commissioner of Education, has been called to the personal attention of the President. No comment concerning the demand for the Kentuckian's resignation or the speech he made recently before the Middlesex County Teachers' Association in Boston was made at White House, other than that the matter had been called to the President's attention. The Kentuckian, as reported here, declared in effect that the American army which broke down German resistance in the final stages of the World War was an army of illiterates, battling against an army of educated troops.

Both Messrs Hord and Rutledge have co-operated in every way with this forward-looking educational plan. They have at all times given of their time and ability to the schools, and certainly deserve an endorsement of their good work at the hands of the voters at this time.

LEGION OBJECTS TO PARDON FOR DEBS

George Harvey Is Condemned for
His Speech On Our Reasons
For Entering War

(By Associated Press)
Kansas City, Nov. 2.—The American Legion at its convention today adopted the Americanization report, one clause of which urged clemency be not shown Eugene Debs, serving a sentence in the Atlanta penitentiary for violation of wartime laws. Another resolution adopted favored the Sweets bill plan for adjusted compensation for former service men.

The resolution asked that action on federal compensation be taken "without further equivocation or delay" and reaffirmed a belief in the justice, fairness and immediate necessity of the measure.

The report of the Americanization committee covered a wide range of subjects, and included more stringent regulations on radical activities. The resolution also castigated George Harvey, American Ambassador to Great Britain, for his speech made in England in which he discussed America's reason for entering the war.

SAYS THESE MEN DESERVE ENDORSEMENT

J. F. Hord and Dr. J. H. Rutledge, present members of the County Board of Education, deserve the hearty endorsement of the voters of Madison county for re-election to said office. They were elected last November, and when the Board organized they threw a one-year term. They have tried to perform their duty to the best of their ability without fear or favor, keeping in mind the childhood of our state. Never before in the history of the county has the County Board of Education made such progress in building and equipment. They have also extended the school term from six to eight months, and raised the salaries of teachers. They have at all times selected the most efficient teachers to be found regardless of political or church affiliation, and at the same time have kept the taxburdened farmer in mind. While the schools have 40 cent levy, it will be remembered that 25 cents of this levy is set apart for teachers' salaries; only leaving 15 cents for general running expenses, building, repairing and extending the term. The records in the Superintendent's office show that they have done these things on a 15c levy during abnormal times. And if they are elected they hope to be able to reduce the tax rate in Madison county as things are getting back to normalcy. They have planned for the next year's work to leave off any building program and repair the old buildings and make them comfortable for the children.

The E. K. S. N. and the Berea Normal are helping to supervise the schools of the county at present, and they report all schools so far supervised in splendid condition.

Both Messrs Hord and Rutledge have co-operated in every way with this forward-looking educational plan. They have at all times given of their time and ability to the schools, and certainly deserve an endorsement of their good work at the hands of the voters at this time.

The Stanford Journal, published in the same county as Crab Orchard, had the following about preparations being made at the prongs for the big event:

Fox Hunt to be Biggest Yet

Judging from the number of reservations at Crab Orchard Springs, where the annual meeting of the fox hunters will be held, beginning Nov. 10th and lasting two weeks, the coming meeting will be the biggest and best in the history of the National Association. To date 400 persons have written for rooms and grand old Crab Orchard Springs will have to go some to care for all who come. Mine Hosts Fickelsen and Haselden say they will have rooms for all, however, and besides, the guests will be supplied with the best of everything they may want. Over 50 have written for horses. The chief of the Latonia Jockey Club has been engaged for the meeting and the inner man will be well taken care of. Crab Orchard Springs was never better prepared to care for crowds and that the fox hunters will go away pleased, as they always have, there is no doubt. Old hams, young chickens, and many other things for the table are being secured and stored away, that there may be an abundance of the best for all who come.
